To select a printer, click on the blue Apple and pull down to System Preferences. Click on the icon in Hardware that says “Print and Fax.” Then click on the + sign in the lower, left-hand corner. This will let you “add” a printer.

Click on Default Browser and if you don’t see the printer you want, click on “More printers.”
It may take a while for more printers to appear. Make sure the top menu says “Apple Talk.”
Once you see the printer you want, click on it to highlight it and click on “Add.” It may tell you that you will have to use a generic post script driver. That’s okay. Just click on “Generic,” and OK, and it will automatically add that printer to your dropdown list.

Happy printing!
